Our Boys' Department

Is now located on the ground floor, thus obviating the necessity of ladies taking the elevator. Our Tailoring Department is located on the second floor. The extensive improvements made by us the past few weeks gives us the best arranged CLOTHING House in the Southwest. Our stock is in splendid shape, and our prices are the lowest in the market. For the Holidays we are prepared with an elegant assortment of Men's Fixings, Morning Robes, Smoking Jackets, etc. Our presents, viz: Watch and Chain, Alarm Clock or Load of Coal, still go with Cash Purchases of $12 or over in either our Men's, Boys' or Fixings' Department.

graduation he assisted his father in the store, but disliked the employment and soon was busy at work as a politician, although still under age.

This first office was as a Deputy Clerk in the New York. Next he was a Clerk in the New York Assembly, in 1870, 1871 and 1875. In 1877 he acted as Chief

Clerk in the New York State Department

under John Bigelow. Mr. Tilden resigned his duties at the time he was Governor of New York, and engaged him during the period of his candidature for the Presidency. From 1875 to 1883, Mr. Lamont was Secretary of the Democratic State Committee of New York. On January 1, 1883, he was appointed to his present position

—Private and Military Secretary of Governor Cleveland with the title of Colonel and a salary of four thousand dollars a year. His salary as Private

Secretary of President Cleveland will be $2,500 a year.

Mr. Lamont is an indefatigable worker, frequently not reaching his home from official business, until midnight. He is a married man and the father of two children.

Our Presidents.

"The Lives and Graves of Our Presidents," is the title of a new work by

S. Weaver, D. D., and published by the Elder Publishing Company, of Chicago,

Ill. The work is neatly bound, beautifully illustrated and contains about 300 pages. It is printed in two styles of binding and sold at $2.75 and $3.50 which is remarkably low for the character and make-up of the book. Prof.

M. E. Chapin, of Nashville, Tenn., is reviewing the book taking notes for this work.

Rolla Rouses From His Long Sleep

tion.

We "Ralls" could bear another licking, and then live on and on, hoping still to elect either Jim Blaine, Philbeck or Ashby to the Presidency of the United States. "Hope is the balm of

We did hope that he would get about one hundred thousand, and divide it among his poor fellows who intended to lead a good fat office under his administration.

MAY the Lays and Lemmings be ever kind to you, Eva Mackay.

RUSSELL HANCOCK, only son of General W. S. Hancock, died last week. His remains were interred at St. Louis.

Ono county and the Eighth Senatorial district must send Democratic members to the next General Assembly.

The Muhlenberg Echo came to us last week looking as bright and clear as a spring morning. It was printed on its new power press.

Mr. VANDERBILT's generous and noble offer to Mrs. Grant will attract to him in no small degree the good will of the nation.

PRESIDENT-ELECT CLEVELAND resigned the office of Governor of New York on the 5th inst. in the following words: "I hereby resign the office of Governor of the State of New York."

We have received the first number of the Union semi-weekly Local, published at Uniontown by R. M. Wilson. We admire the pluck and energy of our contemporary and wish him great success.

The semi-weekly Messenger came out with the beginning of the new year in tri-weekly form. We expect to see it in daily form by the end of the year. Owensboro should feel proud of her papers.

GENERAL GRANT's wealthy New York friends have raised an aid fund for him. The hero deserves the support and sympathy of the whole country in these his dark hours of misfortune.

We have received a communication from Hon. W. D. Coleman, in reply to the communication of "A Miner" which appeared last week. It will appear next week. Read it when you get it.

The Breckenridge News makes us smile when, in speaking of Jack Gross's candidacy for the United States Marshalship, it says: "For a wonder—and a very gratifying wonder it is—this is literally a case of office seeking the man."

We had a call from Hon. W. D. Coleman Monday. He will reply next week to the communication of "A Miner," which appeared in our last issue. We learn from him that he had 22 local acts and 4 general acts passed through the last session, all of which went through both branches of the Legislature without amendment—save one single word in one of the general acts. This indicates that his acts were carefully and intelligently prepared.

The Courier-Journal's Washington correspondent recently said: "The retirement of Mr. Cleveland as Governor of New York has revived Cabinet speculation here. Your correspondent occupied his time today in conversing with the leading Democrats here in regard to this most important question. He heard many names mentioned for Cabinet positions, but the preponderance of opinion among the best-advised Democrats was that the Cabinet of President-elect Cleveland would be constructed as follows: Secretary of State, Hon. Thomas Francis Bayard, of Delaware; Secretary of the Treasury, Hon. Wm. C. Whitney, of New York; Secretary of the Interior, Hon. Wm. F. Vilas, of Wisconsin; Secretary of War, Hon. J. E. McDonald, of Indiana; Secretary of the Navy, Gen. Geo. B. McClellan, of New Jersey; Postmaster General, Hon. Frank Jones, of Louisiana; Attorney General, Hon. A. H. Garland, of Arkansas."

A Cashier Short.

Serugham, teller and assistant cashier of the Lexington City National Bank, is short $37,000. Upon leaving for Canada, last week, he left the following note:

"I am short in my accounts $37,000, but haven't got the money. I am off for Canada, and you needn't look for me nor the money."

It is now thought that his shortness will probably reach $50,000.

STATE NEWS.

The old Davis homestead, near Fairview, where Jefferson Davis was born, is to be sold at Elkton, Ky.

C. B. Simmons, Treasurer of the L. & N. Railroad, at Louisville, has defaulted to the amount of $35,000. He left for Canada, on the 24th ultimo.

The North American Guarantee Company is his story.

A passenger coach on the east bound train of the C. O. & S. W. Railroad was burned one night last week just before reaching Louisville, caused from the explosion of a lamp. A brother of C. P. Huntington was seriously burned.

The Echo says the lurch in the loco trade has made money matters very stringent in that part of the moral vineyard.

The Danville Tribune, the latest Republican paper in the State, has suspended.

One of the social events of the season, says the Echo, was the marriage of Mr. W. A. Wickliffe and Miss Modie Reynolds, which occurred Thursday, January 1st, 1885, at the C. P. church.

The beautiful and expressive ceremony was performed by Rev. E. W. Hall. The church was filled with the friends of the young couple, who had assembled to witness their marriage. The organist, Miss Annie Allison, announced the arrival of the bridal party by commencing "Golden Dream March," which was rendered with the skill of a practiced hand. Immediately after the ceremony the happy pair left for their tour through the South.

The Park City Times gives an account of a tragedy at Rich Pond, in which an ax and a pistol were used, resulting in a dead night.

Mayor-elect P. Becker, of Louisville, was inaugurated last week and set the city going. He appointed John H. Whidden Chief of Police, and Joseph J. Eakin Mayor's Clerk.

A little more than a year ago, says the Bowling Green Gazette, Moses Hess put a number of German Larp obtained from the Kentucky Fish Commission, into a pond on his farm. On Friday one of these fish were found frozen stiff in a shallow portion of the pond, which was eighteen inches in length and weighed a little more than four pounds.

There were sixty-four business failures in Louisville during the year 1884. Liabilities, $2,475,440; assets, $575,926.

Mrs. Henry Wood, of Hopkinsville, dropped dead from heart disease while engaged about her household duties, recently.

David Bradley was accidentally shot and killed in Christian county by Oscar Humberg. They were out hunting.

A duel with knives was fought on top of the caboose of a flying freight train on the Lexington division of the L. & N. Railroad on the night of the 4th inst., between the conductor and a brakeman. Both men were pretty badly used up, but neither was killed. They are in Louisville under treatment of physicians.

A Prophecy.

Came, now! I make a prophecy. The land is full of prophets, and I have as much right as any of them to prophesy. We are not far off from the grandest prosperity this country has ever seen.

Mechanics will receive larger wages, capitalists will receive larger dividends and the factories that are now closed will have to run day and night to meet the demand, and your store-houses will be filled with goods.

Five years of unexampled harvest and of unexampled amity. Northern Pacific railroad apocalyptic in one direction, New Orleans exhibition apocalyptic in the other direction. When I saw week before last, at the opening of the World's exhibition at New Orleans, a dark skinned Mexican thrust through 15,000 people into ecstasy and transport, I said to myself, he is only playing in front of the advancing hosts of Southern republics and empires which are to re-enforce us in a march of commercial prosperity never got a glimpse of in most excited imagination's night dream. While we congratulate with the present hardship, we prophesy the coming rescue.—Intelligencer.

Ohio County.

Ohio is an old county, the thirty-fifth in the order of formation, having been formed out of part of Hamilton county in 1798, and she was named after that grand and magnificent river, upon whose Southern banks the beautiful little city of Owensboro lifts her many spires to kiss the first blush of morn. With an average soil, as compared with other Green river counties, with an abundance of heavy timber of superior quality; with iron ore in fair quantity; with inexhaustible coal fields; then with Green river forming her southwestern boundary for fifty miles and with Rough Creek, which is soon to be made navigable, running through the central part of the county from east to west, and the C. O. & S. W. R. R. doing the same, all forming outlets through which all our surplus products of all kinds may find a ready market, where competition would prove an inducement to greater exertion on account of the superior quality of ours—with all these advantages, I repeat, there is no reason why this county should not at once come to the front, instead of lagging behind, as she has been doing for so many years. If these statements be true, is there any citizen in saying that Ohio county offers almost as great an inducement for immigration as any other section of our whole country? With land cheap; with water pure and cold, gushing in thousands of places from the hillsides, with a genial, hospitable people to live among and with a salubrious climate, with all these to strangers seeking homes, I am sure they will soon come among us.

In speaking of Ohio county, I might add that the entire county of Daviess was taken from her in 1815, parts of Butler and Grayson in 1816, parts of Butler and Grayson in 1817, parts of Butler and Grayson in 1818, parts of Butler and Grayson in 1819, parts of Butler and Grayson in 1820. So Ohio county can boast of several daughters, some of rare faculties and charms, and none unbecomingly homely. But enough on this subject—I did intend to say something about Hartford, but must defer it.—W. C. H. in Daviess.

Beaver Dam Notes.

Jan. 12, 1885.

Perhaps the most consequential men that have been seen in Beaver Dam lately was Dr. George F. Mitchell on yesterday morning. His wife presented him with a brand-new daughter and he was around inviting everybody to come and see his daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. DeForest are visiting their daughter Mrs. J. J. Mitchell. Mr. George DeForest and Mr. Brown visited their brother in law Dr. J. J. Mitchell during the holidays.

Mr. J. M. Rogers will deliver a lecture at Beaver Dam, church Saturday night next on temperance, which will comprise his experience for twenty years in the chains of the monster.

Mr. J. H. Barnett has moved to the Berry house in town.

Mr. George W. Sowder has accepted a position in the store of Messrs. Barnard & McKinney.

A new drug store has been started here under the proprietorship of Messrs. Stearns and Kelly Williams.

Tobacco is coming in rapidly, and trade is fair.

The old year made its departure quietly, and the new came in with no unusual demonstrations. Infact the holidays were unusually quiet. The small boy with his toy pistol and his horse was not so numerous as usual. Firecrackers and such things were not much in demand though fire water did not go off a begging. A few live-lives was the result, but Judge Yewell took them under his consideration.

SUGGS SQUETCHED.

CHERRYVILLE, KY., Dec. 29th, 1884.

I have been thinking of writing you for some time in regard to the HERALD. Now as I have just returned from a trip through Ohio and Muhlenberg counties, I have a few of the readers of the HERALD to bear me witness, what I say.

It is in regard to the book port correspondence, every one to whom I spoke concerning his writing agree with me that he is a dandy. When we get the HERALD we look for the news in and around our old home, and find instead a lot of tomfofery.

We like to read the HERALD and are very much disappointed in our own news, and would rather have that paper's foot's part left blank.

Mr. J. Reid, of Nelson, Ky., was with me in Ohio county recently, and heard the people express their disgust at this book port idiot's communications. It will cut off some of your subscribers if you don't stop it to it.

When we want Shakespeare we can go to the book for it, instead of that stupid, hedged up start at Rockport.

I am yours, most respectfully &c.,

Disaster.

Rosine Rumbblings.

Inasmuch as I have not seen any communication from this place, and believing that some of your many readers would like to hear from this part of the country, I will try to give you a few items if you will allow me space in your valuable and newsy paper.

On Friday night, the 9th inst., Prof. W. B. Hayward, at the instance of the Principal of our school, D. M. Hocker, delivered a very entertaining and instructive lecture before quite a large and attentive audience. The students and patrons and friends of Rosine Public School assembled in the Rosine school-house by seven o'clock, at which hour Professor began and held his audience spell-bound for one and three fourths hours. Having been thus regaled, we would most respectfully request Prof. Hayward to favor us with another lecture soon.

Dr. N. J. Rains, L. T. Cox and S. J. Wedding have been delivering a series of lectures before the students of Rosine school. Subject: Anatomy, Physiology and Hygiene. Their lectures have been highly instructive and well attended. Dr. N. J. Rains will deliver his next lecture on Friday night, the 10th inst. Subject, Absorption. We hope the citizens of Rosine and vicinity will give the doctor a good audience as he is well worth listening to.

Robert Ragland, eldest son of M. S. Ragland, is quite sick of typhoid fever. Dr. S. J. Wedding attending physician. On last Thursday Dr. J. E. Pendleton was called in to see Robert. On Friday morning Dr. Pendleton said Robert was somewhat better.

Miss Ella Whitingbill is quite sick. Mrs. G. B. Vannort is quite sick. For want of time, I must close. Success to the HERALD.

PLAINT FROM LOUISVILLE.

421 FOURTH AVENUE, Dec. 17, 1884.

DEAR SIR:—What was to have been an election was a most fraudulent sale on the 2nd of this month. I was in the McGee movement from the time he first announced himself as a candidate and I never saw people come to my cause as rapidly and in such numbers as they did to that, beginning the Thursday week prior to the election. Before that time it was hard work, but from that day on it was the easiest thing I ever did to win votes for McGee.

The surroundings of Reed were so very objectionable as well as their method of obtaining power by catering to the lowest elements, I looked for a majority of from 3,000 to 5,000 for McGee.

The opposition were as conscious of our strength as we were of their weakness, and got up a "big" mass-meeting, to which, I am sorry to say, some of our leading citizens lent their names, for private reasons, I presume. At first they ignored McGee's candidacy wholly, said he was a "poor man, the son of a mechanic," &c., and could never be elected. They thought to blow him out like a candle, but he proved to be a "Prize Hatch," the stronger the gale the bigger the flame; so they saw at once the necessity of not only earnest work, but fraud at the polls. They, it seems, resolved upon seizing the polls, an intimidating voters, denying recognition, to not elect their man, but to put him in the Mayor's office.

Scene at one poll to illustrate, our County Clerk, a creature of the said McGee, a reporter of the Times, who it is said to be Mayor's clerk, and Assistant Chief of our Fire Department openly laying votes. After officers of poll became too drunk to act, said assistant chief takes charge of poll, while one member of the department under him brings in the voters. Another, a colored man who was bringing in McGee voters by strings like "Munchausen's ducks," was approached by one of the ring's athletes and knocked down.

The real trouble is Odoland, that of getting the substantial citizens interested, and have to rely upon men who are "for sale" too often. We had the victory for the people in the election of McGee, but they refused to grasp it. I told McGee's brother such methods as were used at our last election would be used for him eventually as for any other citizen. He agreed with me but claimed ignorance of it. I told him they were general, but few premeditated. I told McGee he should control the election upon the following grounds, viz:

1st. Officers of polls, almost all Reed men.

2d. Polls near the large factories closed between 12 and 1 P. M., to exclude votes of workmen during dinner hours, knowing the workmen to be for McGee.

3d. Money openly and freely used by white and county officials.

4th. Drunkenness of officers of polls.

5th. Assistant Chief of Fire Department in charge of polls while other firemen brought in voters.

6th. Registrars laws set at defiance.

7th. Minors allowed to vote provided they voted for Reed.

8th. Violence to McGee's poll men by Reed's athletic teamers.

9th. Reed out in the city 12 months, so therefore not eligible even under the amended charter, which was amended by Reed.

10th. McGee votes recorded for Reed and acknowledged by poll clerk, and changed 12 different times at one precinct, and it is presumed to have been done all the time when polls were not watched by McGee's friends.

I am told Reed did not leave Jefferson county till the 12th of January last. If this be so he is not eligible. The people will ultimately answer to their duty and the longer they defer it, the more difficult the job will be. The influence of said ring now extends up to the Court of Appeals, and the Governor's chair I believe, for it is claimed Knott never received his nomination fairly, and you well know what a disturbance was raised at the E. Town convention where Lewis was badly nominated. Their plan seems to be to raise such a disturbance that no business can be done till their man is finally nominated. I regard them as a very disorderly gang that should very promptly be sat down upon.

I think the reason they stopped Reed's votes was they did not know how they were making them in other parts of the city and feared they might get beyond the registration.

I deemed an explanation due you as to why McGee got only 25 per cent. of the vote cast, and should have written earlier, but have been so busy since.

Things always seek, obtain and perpetuate their power by personating the free expression of the voice of the people at the polls.

I thank you for your kindness to McGee at the start of the canvass, and hope he may be able to repay you at some future day.

Truly your friend,

REED L. ALFORD.

The meeting at No. One church, in charge of Rev. B. W. Neal, which has been in progress for several days, is still flourishing. Although the weather has been very inclement, and therefore many of the members of the church could not attend, yet it pleased the good Lord to bless His truth to the edification of those who did attend, and the awakening of many of the unconverted to a sense of their perilous condition. No. Neal is at present being assisted by Bro. Jenkins, who, by his wise counsels and timely advice, has fastened himself, if possible, more permanently in the affection of his old hearers, and commanded the attention and respect of those who have previously known him. On account of the rainy weather we are now having, the meeting will probably be closed before this appears in print. Bro. Neal began the meeting here under very unfavorable circumstances. The church was undergoing a spiritual death, with some individual troubles existing amongst her members, which have been removed, while brotherly love now seems to prevail throughout the church.

Rev. A. R. Smith will begin a protracted meeting at Cool Spring church on the next second Sunday, assisted by Bro. Neal. Bro. Smith is an able minister and is rather in advance of his years as preacher of the gospel, and an earnest christian worker. May his meeting be benedictal, and joy and harmony prevail, is the wish of the writer.

J. H. Ferguson, formerly of this place, but now of Kansas, is back to this country on a visit. We extend to him a hearty welcome.

I was in error in regard to Prof. Henry H. Brown teaching at the Daviess post school house. He applied for the school but some one else was ahead of him, I regret exceedingly that Prof. Brown did not get a school in our midst.

A. B. Wilson's school will close next week. Several premiums will be given to his scholars on the last day. He will attend school at South Carrollton during the spring session. Prof. Wilson has won the esteem of his entire district as an energetic persevering educator. His has been one of the most harmonious schools ever taught in this district. May sunshine brighten your path way up to the tower of fame.

Miss Jane Chinn, one of our most beautiful girls, visited her sister at Prentiss last week.

Editor Herald: As Christmas is over and the tide of holiday hilarity has receded, I avail myself of the present to let you the items as they have occurred around us since my last.

On Wednesday eve of the 21st ult., a large and joyful audience congregated at the C. P. church to witness the unloading of a beautiful Christmas-tree by Prof. B. P. Kelly, in honor of his school, which he has been teaching here for the past five months.

We were also gratified by hearing a voluminous outpouring of soul and sentiment by Prof. K. on "The Duties of Man." It was commended in the highest terms by all who heard it. Everybody was well pleased, especially did we enjoy the delight manifested by the children. Prof. K. leaves soon for a Normal College to increase his capacity in the profession he has adopted. His school has been taught to the entire satisfaction of all concerned.

Miss Etile and Nonie Willis, who have been attending Slaughterhouse Institute, spent the holidays at home, in company with the Misses Nelson, of the same place.

Misses Mattie and Sallie Hale and Mattie Mattingly, accompanied by Messrs. Owen, Ware and Haynes, of Whitesville, spent Christmas with us. Also Misses Mollie Day and Sue May, from the same place, stopped with us on the 25th.

Miss Mollie Crow, who has been in E-town for the last two years, is now a welcome visitor to her old home.

Messrs. Stimmet & May, who have been our merchants here for the last four years, have sold their stock of goods to Mr. J. H. Reed, who will take possession of same in a few months.

Mr. Black is an enterprising young man, of good business habits, and I predict for him a successful future. He has sold his farm and is now erecting a neat residence on Mulberry street, which will be considerable improvement in that part of the village.

Farmers are now trying to dispose of their tobacco.

Boats are nearly impossible. Oh! for a time when we can navigate without any of the above covered in mud.

More again.

Editor Herald: Mr. W. A. Bentley has addressed a most interesting and important war rendence to some of the Eastern newspapers. Who chose Gettysburg for one of the greatest and most decisive conflicts of the world has been a question of long and bitter controversy. When Gen. Reynolds fell, Gen. Howard, who took command, was in an observatory in the city scanning the battle field. Mr. Bentley happened to be in the observatory at the time Reynolds' death was reported to Howard. Gen. Howard ordered that Cemetery Hill be fortified at once as the key to the Federal position. Upon the meadowy hill the destinies of nations often seem to hang. It was only an accident that Howard found that observatory, the most accident that Reynolds fell at that perhaps critical moment, hence an accident that the key to a new position was fortified at a time which turned an approaching terrible defeat into one of the grandest draw-battles ever fought on the globe.

Mr. Chapman told me he helped slaughter a porker of Rev. A. B. Smith's that was so large it was not weighed. It was of the Jersey Red breed. It measured 5 feet 5 inches around the body just behind the fore-legs, 7 feet from nose to tail, and 2 feet 5 inches from the tip of one ear to the tip of the other. Mr. Chapman thinks it would have weighed 600 pounds.

Mr. Thomas Torrence, of Monmouth, Ill., is visiting his mother who is very sick at Mr. Richard Sackler's.

All point, the only point, to "A Miner's" letter, which appeared in your last issue, depend solely upon that "discrepancy" which he alludes to. Mr. Coleman is the first, the only member, who ever made the mine's interest a specialty in the Kentucky Legislature. That he was zealous, untiring and effective his record with its results abundantly proves. He failed only where it was impossible to succeed. It was high time this honorable and important element of Kentucky industry had a champion; for gradually the meshes of class legislation, facilitated by money and bribery, were falling like the spider's web around its victim, binding it down to mean subsistence and slavery. My life-long and respectful intimacy with the mining class demonstrates that they have been too content to leave legislation alone, trusting in the patriotism of our officials to guard their interests, and who honest bend down among the dusky diamonds. And what is more, whatever be their faults, ingratitude is not in the catalogue. Political purposes are distorting the sense of the debt we owe Mr. Coleman and which we will some day pay. But I repeat, until that "discrepancy" is established in the face of reliable proof to the contrary, "A Miner's" letter will not only be pointless, but will be open to the suspicion that it may be a mask behind which traced an itching pain playing upon a tender chord to rear ambition on another's ruin. But there shall be no quarrel between us. I'm for your man cheerfully, heartily when he is nominated by my party.

Prayerfully.

Editor Herald: Christmas, with all there was in it, came around at the usual time, and remained about the usual time, then departed to return again at its usual time, and very soon after its departure the New Year came upon us, and now our people are pursuing the even tenor of their way.

The amusements during the holidays consisted of a Christmas tree on Thursday night, well and beautifully arranged and filled to overflowing with nice and some valuable presents; then a New Year's tree, which, though gotten up on short notice, was a tolerable success. W. T. Cook presented Santa Claus in the first instance and Andy Williams in the next. Very pleasant social entertainments were enjoyed by the young people at Mr. Ross' and John K. Smith's, and since then at Sam Shill's.

Business with our merchants has been fairly good.

A greater number of persons have finished stripping and delivering tobacco than has ever been known to be the case so early in the season before, which, viewed from several standpoints, was a very lucky thing.

Rev. Mr. Weaver preached to a respectable audience at the church in this place Friday night of last week. He has promised to preach here Friday night before the second Sunday in each month.

Several of the schools in this part of the county will close in a week or two from now.

Uncle the Ashby, of near Janesport, Mo., who has been spending the last month among friends here, will start for his home to-day or to-morrow. Uncle Ike has many warm friends in this county who regret to see him leave.

Mr. Rhoades, who bought the Ike Ashby farm near here, has moved to the same. We welcome Mr. Rhoades to our midst and wish him success.

E. R. Ashby has finished hauling logs and will begin rafting in a short time. He has about five hundred cut and hauled.

Mrs. Ann Miller, widow of the late John L. Miller, of McHenry, has taken up her abode with her son-in-law, J. W. Tanner, near this place.

Mrs. Sallie A. Ross, with her small force of small boys, raised a number one crop of corn and hay and nearly three thousand pounds of tobacco last year, and has bought a brand new set of harness and a new Blount wagon.

E. W. W. Howe spent nearly all last week in Hartford attending Court of Chancery.

Alfred Ashby is breaking corn ground.

S. W. Jones went on a business trip to his store in Butler county last week. Born to the wife of Allen Leisure, a son, on the 11th inst. To the wife of E. M. Miller, a son, on the 5th inst. S.

Lovely Dale.

Editor Herald: After a long silence I come to the surface again.

News scarce.

Health good, with few exceptions. Mrs. J. W. Magan is still in a precarious condition.

Old Uncle Billy Thomas is still tramping through this neighborhood with his toes frost-bitten. G. L. Johnston found him last Sunday by the roadside, where he had fallen, and took him in, and now the old man is too feeble to leave, so it seems that Johnston will be compelled to keep him, as every appeal to his kindred is unheeded.

Mr. Frank Myers has erected a new business house here, and we are to have a new post-office here, I understand.

Mrs. Mariah Burden has three quilts that have 13,375 pieces in them altogether. Who can beat this?

Eva Mackay.

THE IRISH-AMERICAN GIRL, WHO IS THE BRIDE-ELECT OF A PRINCE.

The news is confirmed that Miss Eva Mackay, the only child of John W. Mackay, is to be married to Ferdinand Colonna, Prince of Calabria, Prince of Calabria. Every reader is more or less acquainted with the interesting career of the father of the bride-elect. He is generally spoken of as "The Bonanza King," and his countrymen as a rule regard with satisfaction and with envy, his possession of the enormous wealth which alone makes it possible for him to be prospectively the father-in-law of a Prince. Mackay has been fortunate, it is true, but it is also true that he has been industrious and enterprising, and his career is striking evidence of what can be done in this country by the humblest citizen in the way of advancing himself in fortune. Though Mackay began mining operations with pick and shovel, he is now worth many millions of dollars, and figures among the great capitalists of the world. He spends a great deal of time in this country, but his residence is in Paris, where his wife and daughter live in luxurious splendor. Besides his mining interests in this country, Mr. Mackay is a proprietor in the gorgeous Hoffman House, New York, and owns leading rights in one of the Trans-Atlantic cables.

The marriage of his daughter with the Prince of Calabria will ally the representative of a long line of aristocrats with a girl of lowly birth, but who is amiable and accomplished, and as the reader sees for himself, possessed of pleasing personal qualities. It will take place in a short time, doubtless with the magnificence which characterizes festivities in which the Mackays have part.

Ferdinand Colonna, Prince of Calabria, belongs to the Neapolitan branch of the illustrious Colonna family, the Colonna Siliagiani. He is a nobleman, twenty-seven years of age, handsome and elegant. His family and that of the Orsini, were among the most powerful families of Rome during the Middle Ages. Even then it was of ancient lineage. The Colonnas are said to own nearly 150 castles and villas in Italy.

A Hartford Lawyer Cried.

MCTHENRY, Jan. 3, 1885.
On the 1st day of January, 1885, the school house at McHenry was crowded to its full capacity, the occasion that of presenting the Hon. E. C. Hubbard, of Hartford, with a beautiful gold-headed cane, also with a silver tea-set, consisting of seven pieces, one silver plate or salver, one silver tea pot, one silver coffee pot, one silver hot water pot, one silver sugar bowl, one silver gold lined cream pitcher and one silver gold lined slop bowl. After calling the house to order, Mr. Walter Mercer called on the Rev. James Buchanan to lead in prayer, after which the writer had the honor and pleasure of presenting the above beautiful articles to Mr. Hubbard, in the following short speech:

Ladies and gentlemen, we have assembled this evening to recognize in some befitting manner the services of our friend and fellow citizen, Mr. E. C. Hubbard. Some time since a great monopoly attempted to fasten upon us a great evil, in the shape of establishing in our midst convict labor. We stood against it, and we were in dismay, not knowing what to do, one thing we knew, however, that if this evil was once established among us, free labor would be crushed out. The people were opposed to it to a man, but we were without a leader, until we heard a voice declaring his hatred of servile labor, and declaring an eternal warfare upon the terrible monster, that voice was the voice of our friend Mr. Hubbard.

We recognize with deep gratitude the unselfish and self-sacrificing labors of the press of the Green river country, and all papers that espoused our cause and did battle for the right as against wrong; we recognize with feelings of thankfulness the labors of other friends of free labor, whose voices were raised and whose pens were employed in flight our battle. But sir, to you, (turning to Mr. Hubbard) more than any one man, do we feel that we are under deep and lasting obligations. It was to you we looked for advice and counsel; neither did we look in vain; your voice rang out like a bugle blast against this slavery that was about to fasten its evil claws on a free people and reduce them to a level with the scum of the old world; we feel that mainly through your efforts we were rid of this curse, and our homes, our schools, our churches and our rights to free labor, with a fair compensation for that labor, was preserved to us.

And now sir, on this 1st, day of the new year 1885 in behalf of the miners and laborers their wives and children, present you with the beautiful cane, which to after life, when in the course of Nature, you may need to lean upon it for support, may bring pleasant recollections of the past. I also present to you this beautiful tea set, and when in the years to come, you may look upon them, may they bring to you memory, the friends who thus present them, as a token of the love and high regard in which they hold you.

Mr. Hubbard for a while was greatly moved as he received the presents, and it seemed however, as if he could not proceed. Mastering his feelings, he made an eloquent address lasting nearly an hour, dwelling chiefly upon Education, as the only safeguard to our country. Many times he was loudly applauded. It was an address of which any man might well be proud. A grand, honest, and it was a grand man who flanked it. We wish we could give it to you in full, but not having any more time, we must close. The speech should have been heard, to be fully appreciated.

The following is the inscription engraved on the plate also on the cane. Presented to Mr. E. C. Hubbard by the miners and laborers of the Green river country as a token of their appreciation of his services, and assistance to remove the convicts from the mines of Kentucky.

Education in the South.

By Dr. A. H. Mayo, of Boston, whose thesis is devoted to the study of the problem of education, principally in the South, gives an interesting and valuable picture of the present condition. Said he: "In my last visit most of my time was devoted to the states of Kentucky and Louisiana. In Kentucky the State law was in a very bad condition, and a member of the leading men in the State had wintered organized themselves for the purpose of improving the law. I assisted them in forming a better law, which was passed by the Legislature, and Kentucky is now provided with an excellent law, the good effects of which are already being seen. A proper division of the school fund between whites and colored is made, and interest in the cause of education is on the increase. In Louisiana the law as it stood on the statute books was good enough, but its provisions were not carried out, owing to some interference on the part of the people and lack of funds. Last winter the New Orleans School Commission, on an account of lack of funds, decided to close the schools, and the result was that for several months thousands of school children roamed the streets with nothing to do. This was, of course, demoralizing in the extreme, but a better state of things has been seen since the assistance of many of the leading men of the city and the confidant of the State Board of Education. A large appropriation was secured from the city, and the schools are now in a much improved condition.

For the Gulf States it may be said that the schools in the towns are of a fair quality, in many they are graded on a plan similar to those in Baltimore. In the rural districts, however, they are in a condition that is far from satisfactory. The County Commissioners could levy heavy taxes on the people for their support, and the result is that the school fund is very low, and in many of these districts the schools are not open for more than three months in the year. Very little educational progress can be made with such limited opportunities as these. But poor teachers can be secured, and the salaries paid are so small that the teachers will only hold positions until they can get some work that is more profitable to do."

"No; there is some excellent material that is now coming to the front. I mean the daughters of the farmers and planters and others of the first families who last their possessions during the war. These ladies were very young children when the war ended, but now find themselves obliged to do something for their own support. Many of them have been well educated at the academies and seminaries, even at great sacrifices on the part of their parents, and their appreciation of the sacrifice has been made for them urges them to the more strongly to engage in some pursuit that will contribute to their own support, it is not to that of their families. These young women are very earnest and high standing in the community in which they live. They give them a respect from their scholars and patrons that others could not at all. I see in their lives good results for the cause of education in the South. I might mention, among other who are now engaged in this work, the niece of Jefferson Davis, who is the daughter of a wealthy New Orleans planter and the widow and the daughter of an ex-Governor of North Carolina."
